CONTENTS

JANUARY, NO. 1

Studies on the stabilization of carotene in dehydrated feeds and foods. R. C. MILLS AND E. B. HART 1

The use of thiamin disulfide for the estimation of reducing substances in processed milk. H. A. HARLAND AND U. S. ASHWORTH 15

The effect of chlorobutanol on certain members of the B complex in the rumen and blood plasma ascorbic acid levels. NORMAN S. LUNDQUIST AND PAUL H. PHILLIPS 25

Effect of high-temperature–short-time pasteurization on the ascorbic acid, riboflavin and thiamin content of milk. ARTHUR D. HOLMES, HARRY G. LINDQUIST, CARLETON P. JONES, AND ANNE W. WERTZ 29

Brown alfalfa hay—Its chemical composition and nutritive value in dairy rations. H. ERNEST BECHTEL, A. O. SHAW, AND F. W. ATKESON 35

Body size and lactation rate. MAX KLEIBER AND S. W. MEAD 49

Evaporated milk as related to greenish discoloration in coffee. W. C. COLE AND N. P. TARASSUK 57

The fatty-acid composition of glyceride fractions separated from milk fat. E. L. JACK AND J. L. HENDERSON 65

The degree of fat dispersion in cheese milk and its relation to the mechanism of increased lipase action in agitated milk. I. HLYNKA, E. G. HOOD, AND C. A. GIBSON 79

Announcements 85

Officers and committees of the American Dairy Science Association 87

Abstracts of literature A1

FEBRUARY, NO. 2

Effect of various bacteria on diacetyl content and flavor of butter. P. R. ELLIKER 93

Distribution of carotene and vitamin A in butter-making. SOLL BERL AND W. H. PETERSON 103

The importance of uniformity of get in evaluating a sire. LESLIE E. JOHNSON 109

The methylene blue reduction test and its relation to other measures of quality in bull semen. N. L. VANDEMARK, ERNEST MERCIER, AND G. W. SALISBURY 121

Influence of added rennin upon curd-forming properties and peptic digestion of milk. BERNHARD SPUR AND IRVING J. WOLMAN 129

Some observations on the effect of sulfa drugs on blood plasma ascorbic acid levels in calves. NORMAN S. LUNDQUIST AND PAUL H. PHILLIPS 139

The effect of roughage intake upon the fat content of milk. J. K. LOOSLI, H. L. LUCAS, AND L. A. MAYNARD 147

Determination of improper pasteurization by applying the New York City field phosphatase test to cheddar cheese. W. J. CAULFIELD AND W. H. MARTIN 155

The effect of two different methods of feeding cod-liver oil on fat test in milk. L. A. MOORE, G. T. HOFFMAN, AND M. H. BERRY 161

Vitamin K content of dairy and cacao products. W. S. MUELLER AND ANNE W. WERTZ 167

Announcement 169

Abstracts of literature A21

MARCH, NO. 3

A comparison of sampling procedures in making pasture yield determinations. W. B. NEVENS 171
The manufacture of cheddar cheese from pasteurized milk. H. L. WILSON, S. A. HALL, AND L. A. ROGERS 187
Fat degradation in cheddar cheese made from pasteurized milk, without and with added lipase. F. J. BABEL AND B. W. HAMMER 201
Some studies of lactation records. T. E. WOODWARD 209
The alkalinity of milk ash and its relation to the detection of neutralizers in dry milks. I. Dry skim milk. R. W. KUNKEL AND W. B. COMBS 219
The alkalinity of milk ash and its relation to the detection of neutralizers in dry milks. II. Dry buttermilk. R. W. KUNKEL AND W. B. COMBS 227
Further studies on the effect of dilution rate on the fertility of bull semen used for artificial insemination. G. W. SALISBURY, IRVINE ELLIOTT, AND N. L. VANDEMARK 233
A routine semimicro method for the determination of copper in whole milk powder. S. G. MENEFEE 243
The effect of various homogenization pressures on the leucocyte count of milk. I. I. PETERS AND G. M. TROUT 251
Announcements 257
Abstracts of literature A27

APRIL, NO. 4

The influence of breed, feed, and processing on the riboflavin content of milk. D. R. THEOPHILUS AND OLOF E. STAMBERG 259
Photolysis of riboflavin in milk. OLOF E. STAMBERG AND D. R. THEOPHILUS 269
The attraction between fat globules and leucocytes of milk. I. I. PETERS AND G. M. TROUT 277
The influence of pH on the attraction between the fat globules and leucocytes of milk. I. I. PETERS AND G. M. TROUT 283
Cobalt deficiency in cattle in the north eastern region of Wisconsin. R. P. GEYER, I. W. RUPEL, AND E. B. HART 291
The effect of thyroidectomized goat's milk on the heat production of normal and hyperthyroid rats. J. W. HIBBS, T. S. SUTTON, AND W. E. KRAUSS 297
Monthly variations in the composition of milk. O. R. OVERMAN 305
Relation of nutrition to growth and breeding performances in dairy bulls. I. Alfalfa hay rations. I. R. JONES, R. W. DAUGHERTY, AND J. R. HAAG 311
Seepage losses from a silo. J. G. ARCHIBALD AND C. I. GUNNESS 321
Final report on the sub-committee on the determination of the percentage of fat in buttermilk, skim milk and whey. H. C. HANSEN, B. E. HORRALL, E. W. BIRD, AND C. JENSEN 325
General appearance, growth and reproduction of thyroidectomized bovine. A. A. SPIELMAN, W. E. PETERSEN, J. B. FITCH, AND B. S. POMEROY 329
Further studies on the stabilization of carotene in dehydrated alfalfa and cereal grasses. R. C. MILLS AND E. B. HART 339
Tentative program, American Dairy Science Association 341
Abstracts of literature A37

MAY, NO. 5

Alfalfa with and without concentrates for milk production. V. R. SMITH, I. R. JONES, AND J. R. HAAG 343

Reliability of averages of different numbers of lactation records for comparing dairy cows. J. C. BERRY 355
Lactic acid in dairy products. III. The effect of heat on total acid and lactic acid production and on lactose destruction. I. A. GOULD 367
Some relationships between pH, titrable acidity, and the formol titration of milk heated to high temperatures. I. A. GOULD AND R. S. FRANTZ 387
A 1,10 phenanthroline method for the determination of iron in powdered milk. HARRY PYENSON AND P. H. TRACY 401
Announcement 413
Abstracts of literature A43

JUNE, NO. 6

Studies of the carbohydrate metabolism of mammary gland tissue in vitro. I. Production and utilization of various carbohydrate substances. C. B. KNODT AND W. E. PETERSEN 415
Negative pressure and nursing by calves. VEARL R. SMITH AND W. E. PETERSEN 431
The varying requirement for choline for normal metabolism of proteins (casein, lactalbumin, and soy protein) with particular reference to the hepatico-renal syndrome. G. C. SUPPLEE, LORRAINE S. GALL, AND JEAN F. CAUL 435
A comparison of choline, betaine and dimethylaminoethanol in the prevention of the hepatico-renal syndrome. G. C. SUPPLEE, JEAN F. CAUL, LORRAINE S. GALL, AND E. A. PRILL 455
The use of simplified diets in the study of the fat metabolism of the mammary gland. O. W. KAUFMANN AND J. C. SHAW 467
The vitamin A potency of creamery butter produced in Minnesota. ROBERT JEANNESS AND L. S. PALMER 473
The relationship between a low carotene intake and urinary excretion of ascorbic acid in dairy cattle. L. A. MOORE AND J. W. COTTER 495
Note from the editor 507
Abstracts of literature A75

JULY, NO. 7

Effect of feeding iodinated casein on production and health of milking cows. D. M. SEATH, CECIL BRANTON, AND A. H. GROTH 509
The mold mycelia count as an index of quality of butter. P. R. ELLIKER AND B. E. HORRALL 519
A report on the occurrence of rickets in calves under farm conditions. J. W. HIBBS, W. E. KRAUSS, C. F. MONROE, AND W. D. POUNDEN 525
Sorghum feeds for dairy cattle. I. The effects of restricting lactating cows to atlas sorgo rations. H. ERNEST BECHTEL, F. W. ATKESON, MARVIN KOGER, J. S. HUGHES, W. J. PETERSON, AND W. W. THOMPSON 531
Influence of incubation at low temperatures on heat resistance of Swiss cheese starter cultures. J. G. VOSS AND W. C. FRAZIER 545
Effect of atmospheric temperatures on body temperature and respiration rate of Jersey cattle. R. F. GAALAAS 555
Abstracts of literature A91

AUGUST, NO. 8

Ascorbic acid oxidation a key factor in the inhibition or promotion of the tallowy flavor in milk. VLADMIR N. KRUKOVSKY AND E. S. GUTHRIE 565

The influence of milk-fat globule size and milk and cream temperatures on the stability of the frozen cream emulsion. R. W. BELL AND C. F. SANDERS 581
The effect of temperature of reading on the accuracy of the Babcock test for fat in milk. ROBERT JENNESS AND ERNEST O. HERREID 591
The manufacture of cheddar cheese from pasteurized milk in commercial plants. H. W. WALTER AND H. R. LOCHRY 597
Effect of inbreeding on the growth curves of height at withers, weight, and heart girth of Holstein females. G. A. BAKER, S. W. MEAD, AND W. M. REGAN 607
Substances adsorbed on the fat globules in cream and their relation to churning. V. composition of the "membrane" and distribution of the adsorbed substances in churning. ROBERT JENNESS AND L. S. PALMER 611
The fortieth annual meeting of the American Dairy Science Association. R. B. STOLTZ 625
Wilber John Fraser 651
Abstracts of literature A109

SEPTEMBER, NO. 9

Substances adsorbed on the fat globules in cream and their relation to churning. VI. Relation of the high-melting tryglyceride fraction to butterfat and the "membrane." ROBERT JENNESS AND L. S. PALMER 653
Predictability of breeding efficiency in dairy cattle from their previous conception rate and from their heredity. GEORGE W. TRIMBERGER AND H. P. DAVIS 659
Determination of glucose, galactose, and lactose in their mixtures. G. A. RAMSDELL 671
The acid hydrolysis of lactose and the preparation of hydrolyzed lactose sirup. G. A. RAMSDELL AND B. H. WEBB 677
Some observations on the keeping quality of spray-dried whole milk stored at room temperature. J. H. HETRICK AND P. H. TRACY 687
Propionic acid, sodium propionate and calcium propionate as inhibitors of mold growth. I. Observations on the use of propionate-treated parchment in inhibiting mold growth on the surface of butter. J. C. OLSON, JR., AND H. MACY 701
The determination of total solids in dairy products by drying with forced heated air. I. Results with milk, skimmilk, cream, condensed milk, condensed skimmilk and evaporated milk. C. W. LIVAK AND F. J. DOAN 711
Abstracts of literature A123

OCTOBER, NO. 10

Post-war utilization of dairy products. G. C. NORTH, H. H. SOMMER, P. F. SHARP, AND L. K. RIGGS 721
Some changes that may influence the dairy production business of the future. S. J. BROWNELL, C. Y. CANNON, W. E. KRAUSS, H. W. NORTON, JR., C. W. TURNER, EARL WEAVER, AND O. E. REED 727
The gas requirement of molds. IV. A preliminary interpretation of the growth rates of four common mold cultures on the basis of absorbed gases. N. S. GOLDING 737
The phosphatase test and its application to cheese. LINCOLN M. LAMPERT 751
Utilization and excretion of ingested ascorbic acid by the dairy cow. M. G. VAVICH, R. A. DUTCHER, N. B. GUERRANT, AND S. I. BECHDEL 759
Influence of the frequency of transfer of lactic starters upon rate of acid development and quality of cheddar cheese. A. C. DAHLBERG AND FRED FERRIS 771
The keeping quality of pasteurized milk in the New York metropolitan area during cool weather as determined by bacterial counts, presence of coliform bacteria and flavor scores. A. C. DAHLBERG 779
Abstracts of literature A135

NOVEMBER, NO. 11

The effect of pitocin on milk lipase. PHILLIP L. KELLY 793
A diacetinase in bovine mammary gland tissue. PHILLIP L. KELLY 799
Milk lipase activity; a method for its determination and its relationship to the estrual cycle. PHILLIP L. KELLY 803
Vitamin A and carotene content of blood plasma of dairy calves from birth up to four months of age. L. A. MOORE AND M. H. BERRY 821
The "smear" of brick cheese and its relation to flavor development. W. L. LANGHUS, W. V. PRICE, H. H. SOMMER, AND W. C. FRAZIER 827
Outline of a new technique for digestion trial procedure. JAMES F. EHEART, C. W. HOLDAWAY, AND A. D. PRATT 839
A practical method of coloring semen for identification purposes. PAUL H. PHILLIPS 843
Volumetric determination of moisture in dairy products. BURDET HEINEMANN 845
Variation in fat, ascorbic acid, and riboflavin composition of goat's milk. ARTHUR D. HOLMES, HARRY G. LINDQUIST, AND ELLIOTT K. GREENWOOD 853
Seasonal variations in blood plasma carotene and vitamin A of adult dairy cattle. T. S. SUTTON AND P. A. SOLDNER 859
Digestibility of common lespedeza hay. L. L. RUSOFF, D. M. SEATH, AND G. D. MILLER 869
Determination of riboflavin in chocolate milk and the comparative photochemical losses of riboflavin in chocolate and whole milk. M. R. SHETLAR, C. L. SHETLAR, AND J. F. LYMAN 873
Abstracts of literature A165

DECEMBER, NO. 12

The preparation and effect of heat treatment on the whey proteins of milk. H. A. HARLAND AND U. S. ASHWORTH 879
Action of penicillin against mastitis organisms in milk. H. W. SEELEY, JR., E. O. ANDERSON, AND W. N. PLASTRIDGE 887
Predicting the transmitting ability of young dairy sires for milk production, butterfat test, and butterfat production. H. C. DICKEY AND PEDRO LABARTHE 893
A comparison of various modifications of the Babcock test for the testing of homogenized milk. G. M. TROUT AND P. S. LUCAS 901
The determination of total solids in liquid dairy products by drying with forced heated air. II. Results with ice-cream mix and sweetened-condensed milk. F. J. DOAN AND C. W. LIVAK 921
The value of the addition of fresh bakers' yeast to a normal ration for lactating dairy cows. C. L. NORTON 927
Changes in the level of vitamin A and carotene in the blood plasma of dairy cows associated with parturition and beginning lactation. T. S. SUTTON, H. E. KAESER, AND P. A. SOLDNER 933
Some effects of thyroprotein on the composition of milk. J. G. ARCHIBALD 941
